A Future Called

Design Philosophy

I Love to design page layouts and graphics. When seeing a design I immediately look at the process it took to get to that point and the thought process that went into the design. I have never been a person who was gifted with immediate inspiration for a design. I often have to dwell the concept of the design and have to really dive deep in order to come up with an original design of my own. I am often gratified by the finished result as the realization of the process it took for finalizing a design.

My vision goes along with my past experience with design. In high school I naively joined yearbook not knowing what the heck I was getting myself into. It was the most informational two years of my life because not only did I learn career skills but I learned how to work with adobe products. I want to create refined designs with a futuristic touch. I love animation and looking at comics for character design inspiration. I am very into foreign cultures and my dream is to work in the entertainment industry either as a designer or a journalist. I want to embrace differences and cultures around the world.

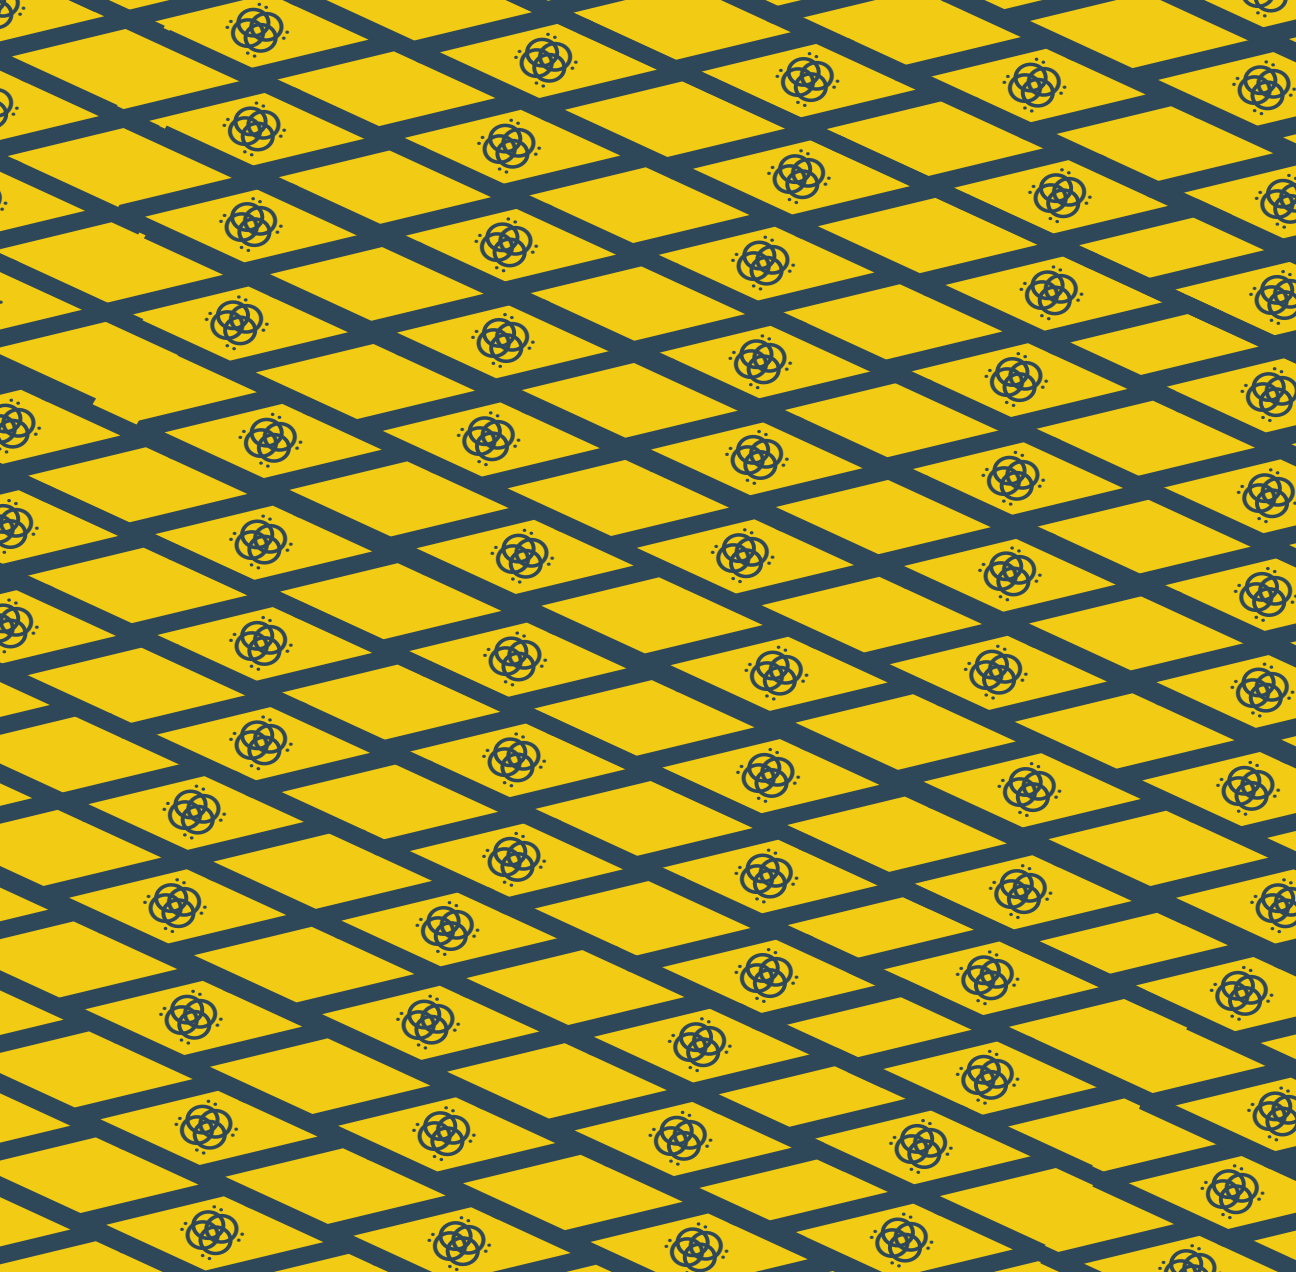
I want to gain as much field experience as possible to accomplish my goals and vision. As a journalist, it's extremely important to build up your experiences in order to gain further understanding of the world. I want to travel and work in order to gain these experiences. I draw a lot of inspiration from Asian culture because it's an area I find beautiful and futuristic. I don't limit myself to one avenue and I intended to embrace all areas that I love. I also intend to use my photography skills to help further build my career toward design and journalism. How you interpret the world is what makes up a lot of what you want to do with your life skills. I am a very determined individual and even when I misstep I intend to keep on moving forward. Leaning on faith can also keep your eyes focused on your goals.

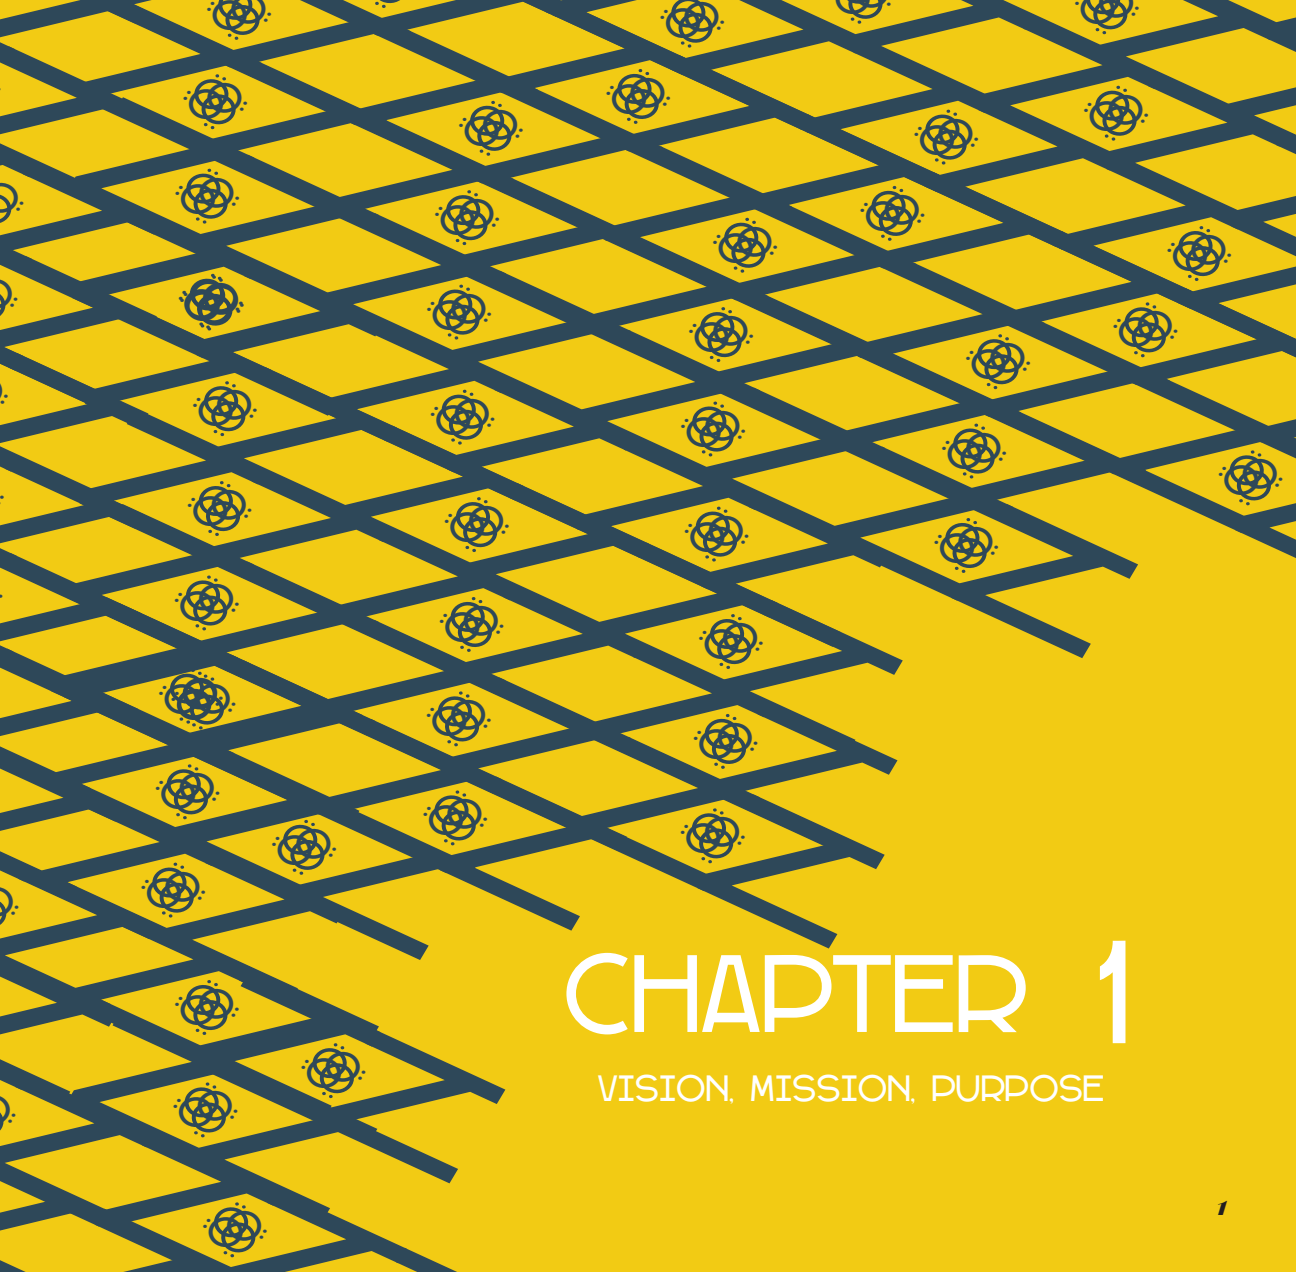
"Different roads bring you to different avenues in life that you should embrace."

I believe God put certain inspirations into people's heart to embrace them. I have a huge love for the creative side of life and it drives me to always stay positive mentally. I often say God created the world to be seen and I want to explore the world he has created.

I often have this negative mindset whenever something sets me back or I don't do as well as classmates. I think telling yourself to keep in mind that every person has their own path in life is extremely important. Different roads bring you to different avenues in life that you should embrace. I will always remember the video packages and movies that touched my heart. ESPN's 30 For 30 is a prime example of mixing art and stories together. In each episode it presents a different look at how life experiences pushes you to new opportunities. 30 For 30 reminds me of how I want to inspire people to feel the things they see and watch.

The watching experience is something special and it deserves to be appreciated. There are so many forms of art out there that deserve to be appreciated. I would like to be able to try them or experience them all one day.





CHAPTER 1

VISION, MISSION, PURPOSE

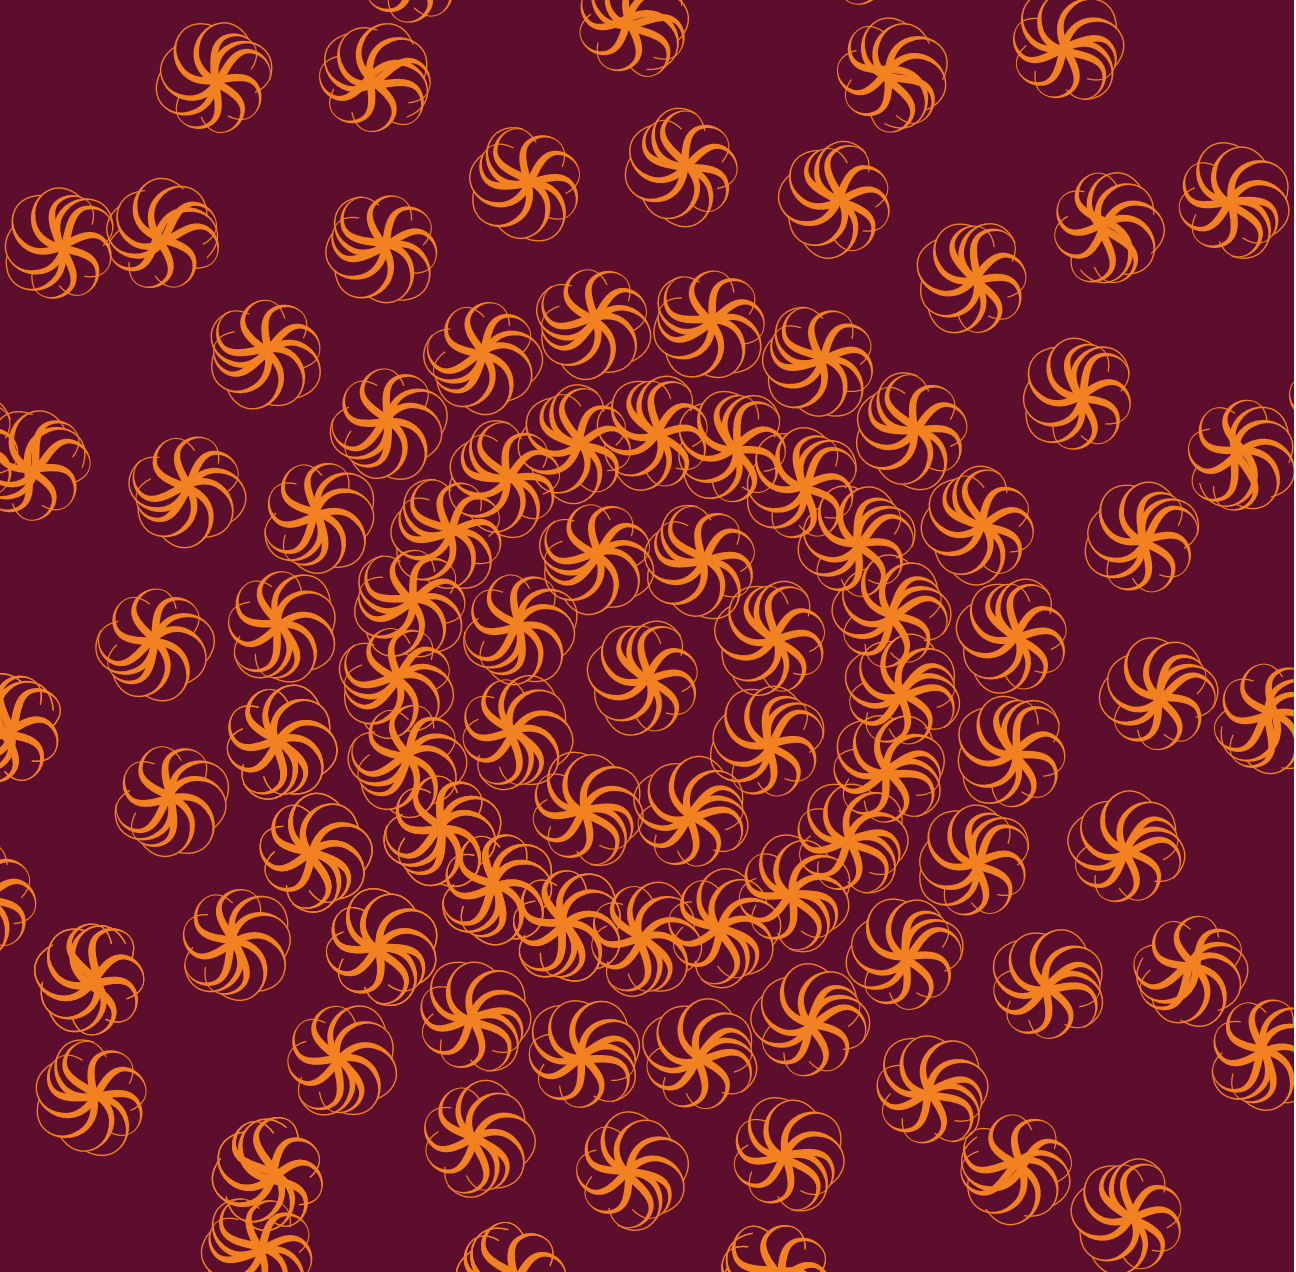
THE VISION

What?

“Whatever happens tomrrow you must promise me one thing that you will stay who you are. not perfect soilder but a good man”

Captain America

The issue of educating about both mental and physical health in order to better the lives of humans. I think eating healthy can also allow you to be mentally healthy in the long run. Mental health is an awareness that is gaining traction. As someone who suffers from social anxiety, I am someone who knows the struggles of stepping out in the everyday world on a daily basis. A world that has an awareness that humans are humans. People make mistakes and not everyone looks the same. The hero wants to encourage people to keep moving forward when life looks bleak. The world is a place for encouragement rather than harsh words. The hero wants people to know that the expectations of life shouldn’t be reflected from social media.



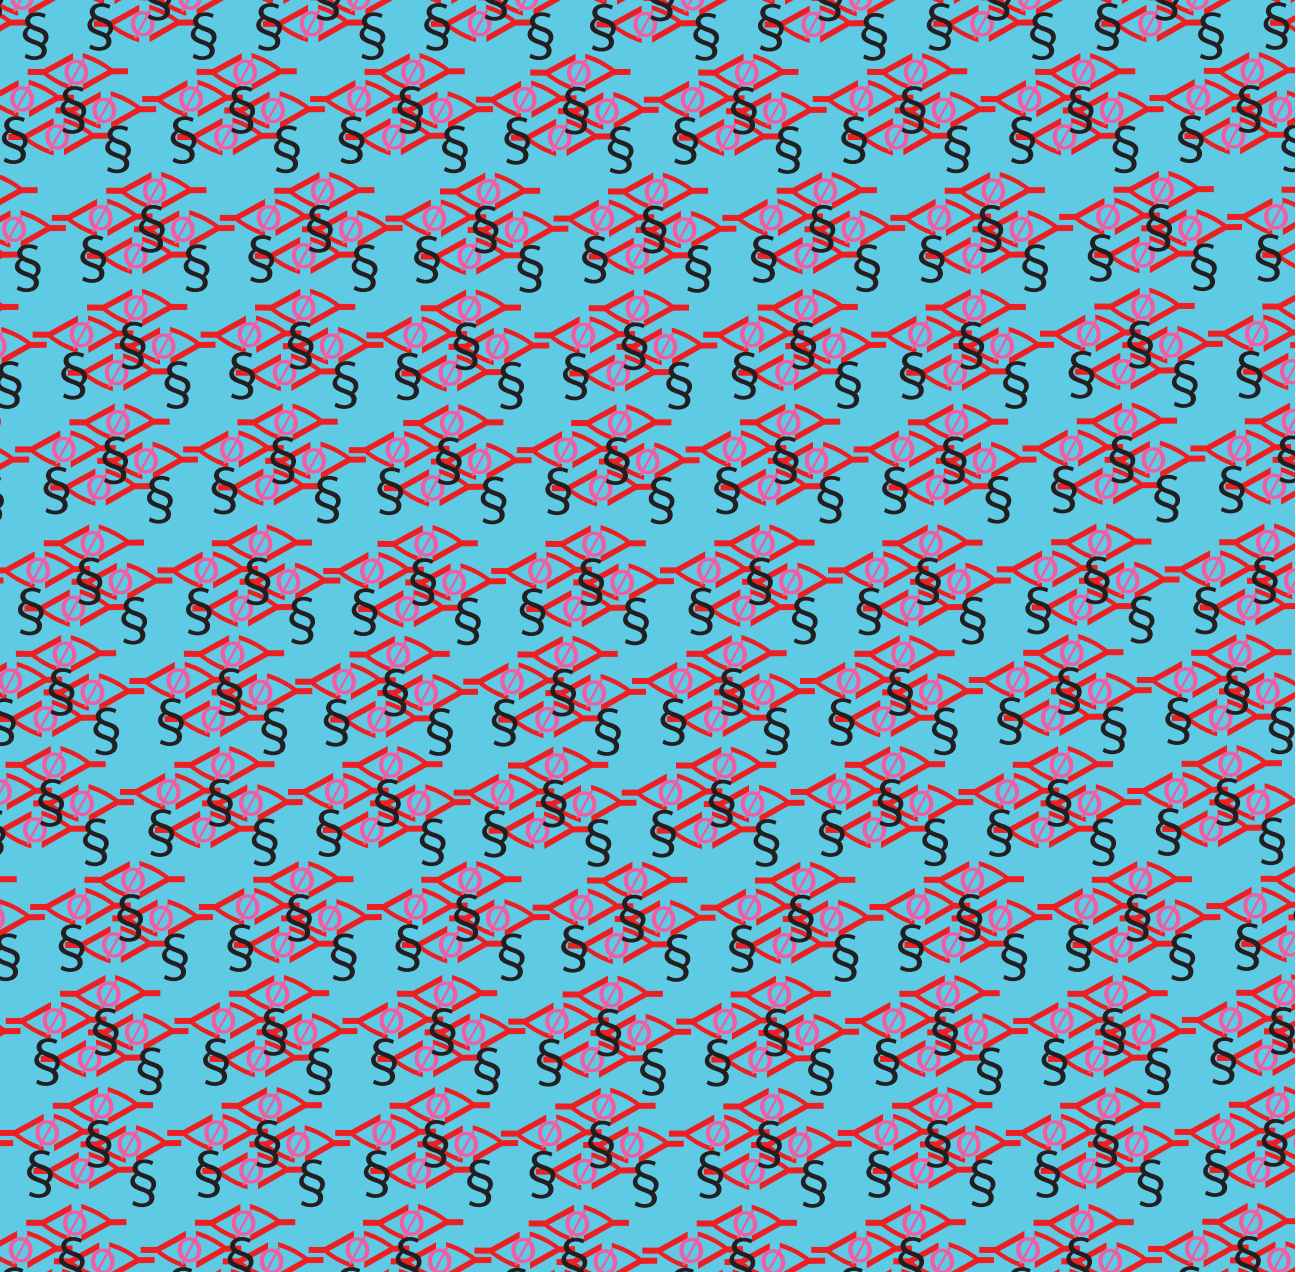
MY MISSION

How?

"We must all live in the real world...& sometimes that be pretty grim"

Captain America

The mission looks hard bleak because its easier to be harsh than it is to be kind but he tries to encourage people's endeavors whenever possible. An act of kindness would be the heroes' mission. The Machine for the younger generation would encourage health from the inside out by visiting schools. A hero is a role model so displaying his accomplishments in a humble matter would be a necessity. they would go on TV and bring public awareness to incidents that occur.



THE PURPOSE

Why?

“All we can do is our best and sometimes the best we can do is start over”

Captain America

The world is on track to trying to find ways to live the healthiest life. The new trend is always arriving to help better people’s lives. Why can’t this be in the form of a hero? People are dependent on a guide and for someone to hear them out. The world needs little encouragement to push forward. The normalization of mental health needs to be accepted. The understanding that everyone is different and it is ok to start over is the reason why the heroes strive to work so hard.

Limitless Possiblities

"Bringing kindess in the world can help improve self esteem. Knowing your impact on the world can help you become more self aware."

Dante & Sonny

Sonny and Dante met each other after school after seeing bullying a constant ignorance in the world. Dante said to Sonny, " Bringing kindness in the world can help improve peoples self esteem. Knowing your impact on world can help you become more self aware." Sonny knodded in agreeance knowing the world can become a dark place for those who struggle to know their worth. Dante and Sonny then went on a mission to empore the youth to stand up in times of adversity and to let the light shine in dark times. They edcucated against self harm and bullying to help the world be more self aware on their actions.

"We Must all have someone to lean on and have faith in"

Dante & Sonny

Knowing there is always rooms for self improvement on the world, Dante and Sonny became advocates of making peoples days a little brighter. They stopped bullying from occuring and edcuated on the repurcussions of words. The internet became their primary focus to reach a broader audience. Their motto became, " We must all have someone to lean on and have faith in." They wanted to become a support system for those you truly need the encouragment to get through life.

“Hard times will happen but its important to get back up again”

Sonny

Sonnys power to use words has a healing force along with Dantes power of spritual uplifting they made a mission to impact the youth. Realizing how big the sitaution actually was they used the interent to globally show their impact. They also opened up a direct messaging system to reach them for help. They realized hard times will happen but its imporatnt to get back up again. With adversity comes a light at the end of the tunnel. The ampersand impacting Sonny adn Dante represnts the ablity to bounce back after adversity. Fighting together they will try to heal all wounds.
